POLICE COMMEND COURAGEOUS TRIO

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

THREE Tottenham policeman who put their own lives at risk to save a would-be suicide victim in a daring river rescue have been commended for their selfless courage.

PCs Andrew Dudley, Edward Knight and Michael Caruth were presented with Royal Humane Society awards by Metropolitan Police Commissioner Sir Bernard Hogan-Howe at a special ceremony at New Scotland Yard.

PC Dudley and PC Knight were on an early-morning shift in their patrol car in April 2014 when they were flagged down by a member of public and directed to the apparently lifeless body of a man lying partly submerged on his back in a drainage channel of the River Lea in Tottenham Hale.

Although it was not deep, the murky water contained hidden hazards because of dumped rubbish, but with no thought for his own safety PC Dudley jumped in and supported the man's head to stop him from drowning while his colleague lay on the muddy banks and helped keep him afloat.

When PC Caruth arrived, he also went into the water as the man appeared to be heavier than expected and they were having difficulty keeping him afloat.

It was only when the ambulance service arrived and instructed them to administer first aid by removing clothing and putting the man, who was slipping in and out of consciousness, in a neck brace that they discovered he was wearing a backpack filled with house bricks to weigh him down.

Brave bobbies: PC Andrew Dudley, PC Edward Knight and PC Michael Caruth, with their awards and Met Police Commissioner Sir Bernard Hogan Howe

They helped carefully remove him from the water and he was taken to hospital suffering from hypothermia.

He had also swallowed a large amount of dirty water and had taken a quantity of drugs. He went on to make a full recovery.

Acting borough commander Amanda Dellar said: "Without their actions the man would have-not survived. Officers are taught not to enter water to rescue unless absolutely necessary as it increases the risk that you may become a victim as well.

"Clearly in this case the officers had to take the risk of putting their own lives in jeopardy, which ultimately resulted in a life saved. We are very lucky as a borough to have such brave officers."

Six arrested after fatality

POLICE have made six arrests after a man was found dead in Tottenham.

The body of Pawel Chwalinski, 35, was discovered near Park View Road by a member of the public last Tuesday evening.

The Polish national died as a result of a blow to the head.

Two men, aged 44 and 28, arrested last week on suspicion of murder, have been bailed pending inquiries to a date in December. Two 21-year-old men, another aged 22 and a fourth aged 23 were arrested on suspicion of murder on Sunday evening.

Detective Chief Inspector Jamie Piscopo, from the Homicide and Major Crime Command, said he was keen to speak to anyone who knew Mr Chwalinski.

Police are also appealing for witnesses or anyone who has information or can assist the investigation to call the incident room on 020 8345 3715 or the police non-emergency line on 101.

Alternatively, they can call anonymously by contacting Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111 or using crimestoppers-uk.org

Fan stabbed

A WEST Ham United fan was stabbed ahead of Sunday's game against Spurs.

The 35-year-old man was knifed in the stomach an hour before kick-off in White Hart Lane, at the junction with High Road, Tottenham.

He was taken to an east London hospital. His injuries are not life-threatening.

Detectives from Haringey CID are urging anyone with information to contact them on 020 3276 3070 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Meera gives backing to dementia support group

CELEBRITY backing has been given by Haringey resident Meera Syal to a new, overarching body formed to support those living with dementia in Haringey.

The former star of TV's Good Gracious Me and The Kumars at No 42 has endorsed the Haringey Dementia Action Alliance, which will coordinate the care and support provided by organisations and institutions to the 1,633 residents in the borough suffering from the degenerative brain condition.

The writer, actress and comedian, who lives in Highgate, revealed the illness was "close to her heart" as she had experience of someone affected by it.

She said: "Living in Haringey, it'd mean a lot to me to see my borough become dementia-friendly where residents, businesses and services understand more about the illness.

"By working together we can ensure people living with dementia feel included in the community and are able to access activities and services with confidence."

The alliance was formed at a special event last week at an event organised by the Alzheimer's Society, Hornsey Housing Trust and Haringey Council at Tottenham Hotspur's Conference Centre

Peter Morton, Haringey Council's cabinet member for health and well-being, said: "By working closely with partners across the borough the alliance will ensure that care and support available in Haringey is properly coordinated and that those affected by the condition are able to live well and retain as much independence as possible."

Mix-up led school to cancel trips after Paris terror attack

Lockdown: Police officers in Church Street, Enfield

Abandoned briefcase triggers security alert

THE centre of Enfield Town was the scene of a security lockdown on Friday morning.

The security shutdown in Church Street was sparked by an abandoned briefcase, which had been left outside Café Nero.

Police were called to the scene at 8.30am and evacuated shops and homes along the street before bomb squad officers carried out a controlled explosion on the suspect device.

Afterwards police confirmed that the briefcase was, in fact, a briefcase. The street was then reopened.

By Ruth McKee

A SCHOOL cancelled trips into central London over fears of a potential terrorist attack.

Raynham Primary School, in Raynham Avenue, Edmonton, posted information on the calendar section of its website, stating: "We have been advised by the local authority to cancel all trips into London until further notice. This is because of the concerns over recent attacks in Paris."

However, the local authority denied issuing any such advice to any school.

An Enfield Council spokesman said: "The following advice [from government] has been issued to schools – we have issued no specific advice relating to school trips within London."

"If your school is planning a trip, you will need to risk-assess each trip on its own merits, taking into account the views of parents. If you are planning on taking children abroad, you should particularly review and consider on-line advice from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office."

The result of a misunderstanding: Enfield Council has issued 'no specific advice' about school trips to London

A spokeswoman for Raynham Primary School said: "This stemmed from a misunderstanding. It was a case of headteachers seeking advice from each other. It was not borough-led and was a mistake to say otherwise.

"The website has now been amended."

Where's Rudolph?

Flying visit: The bearded one arrives from Lapland

THE dramatic arrival by helicopter of Father Christmas thrilled youngsters in Enfield at the weekend.

Santa swapped his sleigh and flying reindeer for the chopper to get him from Lapland to the Phoenix Rose Garden Centre, in Crews Hill.

And waiting excitedly for him as he touched down in an adjoining field belonging to Thompsons Landscaping were crowds of excited children.

"We told them we needed as many boys and girls to wave and cheer so he knew exactly where to land," said general manager Steve Williams.

Helping them make as much noise as they could was a professional children's entertainer dressed as Snow White.

Mr Williams added: "Christmas is the second busiest time of the year for us and Santa's Grotto is always a popular attraction bringing in families.

"They get to visit his house with its fire and Christmas tree, tell him what they want for Christmas, receive a present from him and get a glitter tattoo from Santa's little helper, his elves," he added.

Santa's grotto is open between 11am and 4pm from Wednesdays to Sundays up until Christmas, at a cost of £10 per child. Adults go free.

Time Out award has Matt all of a Twitter

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.s

THE owner of a cafe-bar in Bowes Park found out his business had won a gong at the Time Out Love London awards through Twitter after his invite to the glitzy awards ceremony "got lost in the post".

Matt Riches, from The Step cafe and bar, in Myddleton Road, was scrolling through the social networking site with his wife, who runs the bistro with him, when they saw their names included among the list of winners as they were crowned best Wood Green restaurant.

"We had a cup of tea to celebrate," Matt said, explaining that both he and his wife were having an evening relaxing in front of the TV as the awards were handed out in central London.

"We were just looking at the coverage on Twitter as we assumed we hadn't won anything as we hadn't been invited – and then we saw the name pop up.

"But it turned out our invites had been lost in the post."

Matt says the win means a lot to them as last year Myddleton Road didn't even gather enough votes

Give him a hand: The Step cafe owner Matt Riches to be counted as an area. "We are absolutely delighted and it was lovely seeing the comments on the Time Out website – really supportive things that our customers have said about us," he added. "It just shows that Myddleton Road has come a long way from how it was when we first opened up."

Everything's coming up roses for students

Blooming marvellous: Level 3 floristry students Sheila Meimarzadeh, Debbie Bryant, Michael Hilbrow and Claudia Orchi, with their prizewinning wreath

STUDENTS of a college course for budding florists demonstrated their blossoming talents by scooping a prize in a prestigious competition.

Everything came up roses for the students at Capel Manor Horticultural College, in Bulls Cross, Enfield, after competing in the New Covent Garden Flower Market College Day.

More than 400 students from colleges across the country took part in the event, which introduces the next generation of florists to the workings of the biggest wholesale flower market in the UK and the art of purchasing.

Students with a budget of just £30 were given the task of sourcing, designing and creating Christmas door wreaths in two-and-a-half hours.

The UK Floristry Judges Guild provided expert assessment of the designs and the Covent Garden Market Authority judged the purchasing.

Capel Manor's Level 3 students were far from shrinking violets and gained an impressive second place for their efforts.

Natalie Revett, the college's head of floristry, said: "Opportunities like the New Covent Garden Market College Day help to prepare students for the industry and their future careers.

"Encouraging them to work as a team and allowing them to demonstrate their floristry knowledge and engage with the atmosphere and experience is what the flower market is all about."

The college's school of floristry offers courses at the flower market as its on-site educational provider.

"We are looking forward to the exciting transformation when the market undergoes a major redevelopment and landmark renovation next year to provide cutting-edge facilities for the florists of the future," added Ms Revett.

WHEN it comes to epic productions, Chickenshed Theatre's Christmas show takes some beating

The internationally-acclaimed inclusive theatre, in Chase Side, Southgate, is staging its own theatrical adaptation of the popular festive song The Twelve Days of Christmas.

And with a cast totalling 800 – split into four rotating troupes per performance – it's on a scale comparable with one of those Cecil B DeMille Hollywood blockbusters.

"Each show has a cast of up to 200 members – it truly is the biggest and most spectacular production you'll ever see," said Chickenshed spokeswoman Susan Jamson.

Rehearsals have been taking place for tomorrow's opening night performance and the show is due to run until January 9.

It tells the tale of four children who follow the partridge of the song in a quest for one of the five gold rings, encountering an array of larger than life characters on the way – ranging from paranoid gaggles of geese, to maids a milking, lords a leaping, swans a swimming and pipers piping.

Commendation: PC Steven Robertson

Brave Steven guided children to safety in midst of machete terror

AN unarmed police officer who climbed on to a roof to beckon two young children playing in a garden to safety as a man with a machete rampaged through their street has been given a special commendation by a high court judge.

Constable Steven Robertson was one of the officers called to the scene in Nightingale Road, Edmonton, when paranoid schizophrenic Nicholas Salvador killed 82-year-old Palmira Silva in the garden of her home in September 2014.

At Salvador's trial at the Old Bailey in June, Judge Nicholas Hilliard particularly commended 32-year-old PC Robertson for his actions.

Salvador was tracked by a police helicopter and as officers scrambled to evacuate nearby homes unarmed officers were ordered to withdraw.

Despite hearing the order, PC Robertson realised there were people in their gardens, oblivious to the potential danger and he climbed on to a garage roof to gesture to a family to flee.

Chief Inspector Sharon Harding said it was a tragic day and officers' heroic actions "undoubtedly prevent further loss of lives".

"Situations like this call for teamwork of the highest which was without doubt exhibited by all," he said.

"Sometimes people stand out and deserve some kind of recognition."

She described how PC Robertson realised how serious the situation was and climbed on to the roof, despite the order for unarmed officers to leave the area.

She said: "He immediately saw two young children playing in the garden. They did not hear him, but eventually he attracted their attention by waving his warrant card and he directed them into the house."

The children and their parents were taken to safety by the police, fleeing from their house through a window.

PC Robertson, a former lifeguard, joined the police nine years ago. The Edmonton-based officer said he heard on the police radio that there were people in the garden and he acted on instinct to get them to safety.

He said: "It was one of those split second decisions that you make."

He spotted the children's father sitting in a covered area and gestured with his police baton and warrant card for the family to go indoors.

Salvador was found not guilty of Mrs Silva's murder by reason of insanity and was ordered to be detained indefinitely at Broadmoor psychiatric hospital.

At Friday's borough commander's commendation ceremony 14 officers received recognition for teamwork and dedication to duty while safeguarding the public and securing and preserving evidence.

They were air observers Captain Lee Tooze and PCs Andrew Cronshaw and Ricc Tartaglia, Detective Sergeant Alan Dawson, PC Gareth

Victim: Palmira Silva

Bowen, Sergeant Jamie Moggridge, Detective Sergeant Alan Dawson, PCs Aimee Carter, Jackie Alexander and Adam Traidia, Detective Constable Jennifer Melling and PCs Jamie Edgoose, Iain Macpherson and Stacey Gilbert.

PC Bowen had been finishing his shift when he was called to the scene. He recalled: "Our group of officers were the first there and we were getting people out of the houses."

He said police were going up and down the road to lead people to safety.

Police praised for 'professionalism and compassion' in the aftermath of bus tragedy

CARING police were honoured for their compassionate work following a fatal accident in which a schoolboy died in Edmonton.

Police Constables Ilyas Anwari and Ian Nelson were first on the scene after the rush-hour accident in January in which 13-year-old David Barcelos died.

While PC Anwari helped a paramedic, PC Nelson parked his car across the road and identified witnesses and a traumatised driver.

Police Constables Gemma Curran and Anthony Hamilton-Pilot were praised for the sensitive care they gave the boy's family.

All four officers were commended for their "professionalism and compassion".

A quartet of officers responded to a call in the early hours from a terrified, bedridden resident in Henley Road, Edmonton, who said there was a man in the building opening doors by torchlight.

Police Constables Ian Cromhout, Paul Jones, Lucy Maamoun and Stevie Perry were commended for their bravery and devotion to duty when they arrested an armed man at the house.

PC Jones discovered the man hiding under a bed, armed with a knife.

The officers were praised for putting the frightened resident's welfare first.

Other commendations went to Inspector Andy Port, who spotted similarities in a series of robberies and worked with Detective Constable Robert Delaney to track down the suspect.

When Police Constable Christopher Jackson stopped a man who was getting out a car wearing gloves, he did not suspect that he would discover a cache of weapons including a foot-long machete, CS spray, baseball bats and a hammer. He was praised for appearing calm as he arrested four men who were planning to commit a serious assault.

Ceremony lauds dedicated officers

EXCEPTIONAL policing in sometimes difficult and dangerous circumstances was honoured at a special ceremony, writes Julia Gregory.
Enfield's Borough Commander

Chief Superintendent Jane Johnson, said that it was important to praise police for their "incredible work, sometimes in the most adverse situations."
They range from tackling an armed intruder and reassuring the terrified householder, to assessing a series of robberies to track down a persistent offender.

Police have also been praised for their work after a "horrific" fatal assault on a pensioner and in the aftermath of a road accident when a young boy died.

Officers were presented with awards at a ceremony at the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, on Friday.

Smiles all round: Chief Superintendent Jane Johnson gives an award to Inspector Jim Clune

Jim's proud – and Tommy's special

MANY successful officers owe a debt of thanks to Inspector Jim Clune.

He has been involved in mentoring police in Enfield and at least eight officers who achieved promotion have benefited from his guidance as they put in their applications.

He has been involved in arranging mock interview boards and ensured that his colleagues got all-important feedback as they prepared for the real thing.

According to his citation for professionalism and leadership through mentoring and developing, officers Inspector Clune gave up "many hours of his own time while on and off duty to give advice".

Special Constable Tommy Kyriacou has excelled in his duties and is starting work as a full-time officer. He will be at Hendon Training College in the new year before starting on the beat in Haringey. He was already working as a detention officer at Edmonton police station, in Fore Street, and decided to become a special to find out what the job entails.

He was praised for his contribution, including the "sensitive" way he dealt with the victim of a serious sexual assault and his professionalism.

He was named the Special Constable of the year at the borough commander's awards. During his 283 hours of service as a special since he joined in October 2013, he has also supported the Edmonton Neighbourhood Patrol.

The 39-year-old, who started work with the police in 2012, said: "I became a special because I wanted to see if it was suitable for me to do. I've passed my exams and I can't wait to start work."

Special award: Special Constable Tommy Kyriacou

NEWS

Food for thought: Enfield has provided more emergency supplies than most in London

Food banks are not the solution, says councillor

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A LEADING councillor has insisted that donations to food banks do not absolve government bodies from their responsibilities towards children and families who are struggling to make ends meet.

Yasemin Brett, the cabinet member for community organisations and culture, led Enfield Council's Mitzvah Day good deeds by helping organise a donation of non-perishable food to the food bank, in Lincoln Road, Ponders End.

However, with new data from the Trussell Trust showing that of all the London boroughs where figures were available, Enfield provided the fifth highest amount of three-day emergency food supplies between April and September.

Joan Ryan, the Labour MP for Enfield North, said: "It is outrageous that so many families with children are having to rely on food banks to put food on the table."

She added that by accepting food banks as the norm there was a danger of depending on them rather than challenging the circumstances that led to families relying on them in the first place.

Mrs Brett said that rather than endorsing food banks as a solution to low pay, tax credit changes and rising bills, the council's donation to them was just one element of the local authority's attempts to help residents cope in the face of government cuts.

She told the Advertiser: "The fact of the matter is that people are in a dire situation. They need the kind of help provided by food banks."

"Poverty is affecting working people and it is terrible. The people who are going out and earning a living are struggling to feed their families. That is awful."

She added that the council was "lobbying furiously" to get the government to take notice of how poverty was affecting residents.

Alison Garnham, chief executive of Child Poverty Action Group, said that the long-term solutions to people relying on food banks to avoid starvation was with the Department of Work and Pensions.

She told the Advertiser: "Our research with Oxfam, the Church of England and Trussell Trust found that problems with benefits are the biggest trigger of food bank use, so while food donations are sadly necessary for many families, the long-term solutions lie with the DWP."

"Between a quarter and a third of food bank users in our study were waiting for a benefit claim which had not been decided and between 19 and 28 per cent had had household benefits stopped or reduced because of a sanction, yet when they're challenged around half of sanctions are overturned."

"No parent wants to rely on charity to feed their family, but benefit delays can mean there's no other option – eat from the food bank or don't eat at all. No parent should have to make that decision in the UK today."

"Addressing the real drivers of UK food poverty must become a national priority. That means fixing benefits administration, protecting the value of family benefits – including tax credits – and tackling low pay and rising housing costs. Until that happens, hard-up families will continue to be exposed to hunger."

Over-50s pinpoint health funding concerns

THE leader of a pressure group for the borough's over-50s has raised concerns about the funding crisis in Enfield's public health services.

Monty Meth, who is president of the Enfield Over 50s Forum, said the group had discussed concerns over further cuts to spending in public health with the borough's three MPs and called on them to lobby NHS England.

Mr Meth said: "Enfield is the fourth largest London borough, yet it ranks number 25 in its funding allocation for public health."

He said the borough's public health budget was already 13.6 per cent lower than the Department of Health target.

He added: "It seems crazy to cut public health funding when long-term health conditions now account for 70 per cent of the NHS budget and these conditions are reducible by changes in a person's lifestyle – the key task for public health in Enfield, where obesity and people being overweight costs the borough some £80million a year in health and diabetes accounts some ten per cent of the local NHS budget."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. "Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole."

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Is this a cause for concern?

THE incinerator at Edmonton is among those around where rates of infant deaths are being examined by SAHSU, on behalf of Public Health England.

Former MP Andy Love was concerned about a link between incinerators and infant deaths and yet his parliamentary question was brushed aside in the written reply (Hansard, July 22, 2011).

Enfield Council's health and well-being report has the following on page 1, which suggests that exposure to emissions from Edmonton incinerator cannot be excluded as a cause for higher infant death rates:

"Within Enfield, the infant mortality rate is statistically significantly higher in Upper Edmonton than it is in the borough's other wards, that is, there is very likely to be a true causal difference and this finding is not just due to chance or normal variation."

Those who think poverty causes high infant mortality might wonder why wealthy Kensington & Chelsea had the highest 1965-67 infant mortality rate of all London boroughs.

You wouldn't have signed it

I WOULD have far more respect for councillor Terry Neville's position ("We aren't anti-cycling, but the scheme is flawed", Advertiser, November 18), if he would simply admit that if he had been the leader of the opposition at the time, he would have refused to co-sign the Mini-Holland bid, rather than to attempt to wriggle his way out of the cross-party commitment with a series of spurious arguments.

Maybe, he should have a word with his deputy and my shadow, councillor Joanne Laban, who is on record as supporting the idea of dedicated cycle lanes in Palmers Green and the A1010, but has since gone to ground.

Councillor Daniel Anderson
Cabinet Member for Environment
Southgate Green Ward

Is it a coincidence that Southbury is a Labour ward?

YOU report that councillor Daniel Anderson, cabinet member for the environment, has now said that he "will not rule out" moving the cycle route currently proposed for Southbury Road to other parallel roads ("Nothing ruled out on Cycle Enfield consultation", Advertiser, November 18).

This may come as a surprise to residents of Enfield Town since this is the opposite of his decision regarding the Cycle Enfield route for Enfield Town. Residents, shops and community groups all supported Option 4 – the Cycle Enfield option that would have provided safe cycle lanes along Cecil Road, parallel with Church Street.

In our area, however, Mr Anderson has refused to consider anything other than the options that will put the cycle lanes along Church Street, double traffic and congestion in Cecil Road and cause significant problems for shoppers and businesses along Church Street and London Road. Would the reason for his flexibility regarding Southbury Road – but not other areas of the borough – be related to the fact that Southbury is a Labour ward and he does not want to risk the votes he knows this scheme will surely cost?

Counting the human cost of budget cuts

FURTHER to the letter, "It's not acceptable to target disabled people" (Advertiser, November 11), here is another shameful instance of this happening.

Funding of people with learning difficulties to attend day centres is a long-established practice and is known to be life enhancing.

Now this funding for those in residential care is being removed. This is cost cutting hitting the most vulnerable and voiceless in our society and is not, as the council says, a removal of a duplication of costs.

All of us feel we have a right to variety and stimulation in our lives and this is what the day centres offer their clients with additional high levels of personal support.

The future now looks very bleak for such people. The residential homes are being squeezed financially and it is extremely unlikely they will be able to offer replacement activities and outings. Parents/carers quite justifiably fear boredom, frustration and regressive behaviour. As a result of these cuts a well-loved day centre in Enfield, which has offered an excellent service for many years, is no longer financially viable and will close at the end of the year. This is a tragedy and so will the effect be of the funding cuts on those in residential care who must have others to stand up for them.

The only news that comes from the council is good news. When it comes to something for which it should be ashamed, it falls far below the radar.

And ashamed it should be of the human cost resulting from the stringent cuts to the social services learning disabled budget.

Policing needs must be met

THE scale of cuts facing London's police force will be made clearer when the Chancellor delivers his Comprehensive Spending Review.

However, with at least £800million expected to go from the Metropolitan Police budget, we already know there will be challenging times ahead for the capital's crimefighters.

London's policing needs are unique, and they are rapidly changing. In recent times we have witnessed a rise in some of the most serious crimes, such as youth knife crime. We've also felt the extensive impact of government cuts, with more low level crimes, such as burglaries, going unsolved.

It will be that much harder to address these worrying trends if we do not have the correct resources.

Serious decisions about the way our capital is policed will be based around the funding allocated to the capital and Londoners' jobs and livelihoods are hanging in the balance.

With so much at stake, the Home Secretary must deliver the necessary resources to ensure that London gets the police service it needs.

I understand his frustration

I FELT that I had to respond to the article (Advertiser, November 18) about the swearing incident in the council meeting.

I was one of three people sitting in the public gallery and I don't think anyone would condone what councillor Andrew Stafford said – and you could see immediately that he himself deeply regretted his statement. I have to say, however, I can empathise with him on a certain aspect of the events.

The councillor Mr Stafford's remarks were aimed at had been provocative in his manner all evening – he had been goading several of the council members – and I believe that Mr Stafford's frustration got the better of him at being lectured by someone who obviously had no experience of the misery Baroness Thatcher brought millions of people, the miners' dispute and the destruction of entire communities.

On Terry Neville's comments about "setting an example to the many new members of council", this cannot have been helped when he referred to a "newer, younger" member of the Labour group as "Junior" earlier in the debate. Condescending remarks from him do not set a good example, either.

On the whole, the entire meeting cascaded into a shambles.

I do believe that the Labour administration should have brought casual staff in to replace the Tories who had walked out without a ballot or any notice, and how lucky for them to be in a position to withdraw themselves from an environment they felt was hostile. Pity what they were arguing is support of a government that wants to take away that right from six million organised workers.

How lucky they are...

'He was so inspirational'

Davina Rivers pays tribute as her husband Eric dies five years after being diagnosed with motor neurone disease

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A LEADING light in the battle to raise awareness of and fund research into motor neurone disease has died at the age of 49.

Eric Rivers, of Gordon Road, Enfield, became a familiar face in the borough after he featured on BBC television programme DIY SOS four years ago.

The episode detailed the modifications of Eric and his wife Davina's home needed in the wake of his MND diagnosis in 2010.

The couple's defiance in the face of the disease that gradually attacks the body's neurological processes inspired residents across the borough – and Eric and Davina both featured in public campaigns and events to raise money for more research into finding a cure.

After five years living with the disease, Eric died at home on November 7, with Davina and his three daughters Summer, 17, Jodie, 15, and Layla, nine, at his side.

"I think he was just incredible," Davina said of her husband. "I think he was a natural teacher.

"He taught me what unconditional love meant. He taught me what it was like to be loved without judgement and without criticism.

"He was so inspirational."

She told the Advertiser that the words she tells people to remember her husband by is his mantra of "Don't sleepwalk your way through life. Take the time to enjoy the privilege of getting old."

Before his diagnosis Eric was a

'An exceptional man': Eric Rivers with his wife Davina and, inset, with teammates at Hornsey Cricket Club project manager for Virgin Media and was passionate about cricket, playing at Hornsey CC.

"Cricket was his passion," Davina said. "His teammates loved him and they have all expressed the loss they feel. He was quite an exceptional man, but, of course, I knew that when I married him."

Eric's funeral service will take place on Friday at 10am at Our Lady of Mount Carmel and St George Catholic Church, in London Road, Enfield. The service will be followed by burial in Lavender Hill cemetery, in Enfield, and a wake will be held at Hornsey Cricket Club, in Park Road, Crouch End.

Noise misery for flat tenant

Complaints: Brian Johnson says that he first asked for a move in 1988

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD Council has denied ignoring a council tenant who has been complaining of noise pollution in his flat for more than 25 years.

Brian Johnson, 68, of Eastfield Road, Enfield Highway, says that he first applied to the council to be moved in 1988 as his lodgings were little more than a bedsit, with an alcove for a bed, a narrow kitchen and small bathroom, and that the noise from other flats made it impossible for him to live comfortably.

"Basically, the place is far too small," he told the Advertiser. "It would really be better as a kind of store room, or caretaker's area, not a flat."

Mr Johnson says that because of shoddy insulation in the flat above him, he has been affected by noise on a nightly basis and often has been exhausted by the morning when he sets out to his work as a peripatetic teacher in Hertfordshire.

"The council has treated me so badly," he said. "I have been on a waiting list to be moved for years and I have asked them even to install a meter to register the noise levels in this flat, but because the environmental health and housing teams have been so bad at getting back to me I have had to take my complaint to the housing ombudsman, and I still haven't even heard back from them."

However, council chiefs maintain they have not heard from Mr Johnson for more than a year.

A council spokesman said: "We have received numerous complaints from this tenant on a very wide range of issues over the years and we have taken appropriate action in each case."

"We have had no communication with this tenant regarding noise or antisocial behaviour since 2014."

I was struck down with unbearable back pain but now I'm well again after IDD Therapy

Non-invasive treatment solves Alex's slipped disc agony

Flooring expert Alex Robinson thought he might never work again when he was struck with excruciating back pain. He finally found relief with a targeted spinal disc treatment which is being championed by back pain experts at Enfield Osteopathic Clinic.

Alex, 44, from Potters Bar explains:

"My back pain started about six years ago. As a floor layer, I'm often kneeling over in the same position for hours at a time. At first the pain was a bit 'hit and miss' but soon the episodes became more frequent until last summer when I had three weeks of complete agony which ended with me flat on my back and unable to work."

Alex's condition had a very negative effect on his life:

"My condition was very debilitating. At its worst, I could hardly move - despite taking strong painkillers. I hardly slept - I was woken several times a night by the pain."

Alex had tried manual treatments over the years but none gave him any lasting improvement.

"Over the years my GP has arranged for me to have physiotherapy and acupuncture but it didn't really make any difference to the pain. Eventually I got an MRI scan which showed disc degeneration in my lower back. I looked on the internet to see if there were other non-invasive treatments for disc problems. I found IDD Therapy at Enfield Osteopathic Clinic."

■ IDD Therapy relieves back pain, neck pain and leg pain (sciatica)

Intervertebral Differential Dynamics (IDD) Therapy is a mechanical treatment which gently draws apart specific spinal segments where discs are damaged or herniated (bulging), taking pressure off targeted discs and any trapped nerves.

Things came to a head in August when after working in the same position for three hours, Alex's back seized up and he was locked in agony.

"My co-worker literally had to struggle to pick me up and lay me in the back of my van. He drove me to Enfield Osteopathic Clinic but the clinic wasn't open so he rang for an ambulance because I was in so much pain. As it happened, the Clinic Director, John Yeboah turned up before the ambulance and he and my friend carried me in to the clinic.

"After a 25 minute IDD Therapy session I was able to get up and walk out of the clinic"

John put me straight on the IDD Therapy treatment bed and warmed up the muscles in my back with some infrared heat therapy before starting the machine up. The treatment was very soothing. I could just feel gentle 'ripples' through my back.

After a 25 minute session I got up from the treatment bed and was able to walk out of the clinic. I was absolutely amazed by the immediate relief I felt just after this first session. As the sessions continued my pain eased a bit more and soon I felt like new again.

I finished my treatment programme last month and I'm feeling so much better. I only get pain now if I'm hunched in the same position for hours at a time - so I try to break up the tasks in my working day a bit better now."

Enfield Osteopathic Clinic is part of an international network of 1000+ IDD Therapy Disc Clinics. The treatment was developed in the US in the late 1990s and has been adopted by clinicians in the UK following the exceptional outcomes: they report a significant improvement in 70-90% of patients.

John Yeboah's expertise in treating spinal conditions spans almost 20 years. He continues to be impressed with IDD's capabilities:

"Alex's story sounds like a modern day miracle but IDD Therapy is genuinely capable of producing exceptional results like this for people like him."

With IDD Therapy, back pain and sciatica sufferers are finally getting their lives back to normal after being on the merry-go-round of manual treatments, painkillers and spinal injections. It's wonderful!"

Cuts warning to Osborne by adult social care chiefs

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A POLITICIAN with responsibility for adult social care in Enfield has added her name to a warning to the Chancellor of the potential consequences of further cuts.

Alev Cazimoglu and 18 other Labour social care leaders across London have written to George Osborne in the run-up to his Spending Review and Autumn Statement today (Wednesday).

In the letter they said that a 30 per cent cut to council budgets over the next four years would mean, in all likelihood, "a very significant impact" on adult social care services.

They told Mr Osborne they feared the move would put "at severe risk" the ability to fund elderly residents who are supported in the community instead of occupying a hospital bed, which typically costs the public purse three times the amount, as well as support for the person experiencing mental ill health who needs help through a period of intense crisis.

They said they were contacting him instead because they feared their most vulnerable residents would suffer if services were cut.

"As social care risks being stripped back to the barest of necessities, this will further undermine and increase strain on our much-loved national institution," they added.

Mr Osborne was also warned that cuts could put the NHS and the social care infrastructure into a state of crisis, "costing more in the long term but denying vulnerable patients the right level of care and support".

Fears for residents: Alev Cazimoglu

Ms Cazimoglu said she feared that GPs and emergency departments would feel the pressure if funds were not available to care for people in the community and they were admitted to hospital instead.

Services which could be cut were in-home care for the elderly for help with tasks including bathing, respite and support for young people with disabilities as they become adults, said Enfield Council's Labour group.

First Steps - The Alice Nursery

(Girls only pre-prep for Palmers Green High School for 3-4 year olds)

At the Alice Nursery we pride ourselves on offering a first-rate pre-prep experience, led by our Nursery Manager (a fully trained and experienced teacher) and her specialist Early Years Trained staff. Girls flourish in an atmosphere of calm excitement and purposeful engagement as they discover the world around them through a variety of carefully planned activities linked to a weekly theme. As soon as they are ready to begin to read they are encouraged to do so, being taught by fully-trained staff with a working knowledge of education beyond Nursery.

The girls have experienced a host of fun-filled trips and events that have kept them busy throughout this academic year. Annual highlights included the Nursery Nativity, Sports Day, trip to Willows Farm and Paradise Wildlife Park, and visits from Uncle Vic and his 'mini beasts' and Edmonton Fire Brigade.

Girls may join after their third birthday and families are welcome to visit during our regular Wednesday Open Mornings. However, please be aware that the colourful and welcoming environment of the nursery often means that prospective parents - and especially their daughters - often don't want to leave!

Project will see youth worker based at A&E

Pioneering scheme aims to target scourge of violent crime

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

YOUNG victims of violent crime who go to North Middlesex University Hospital's A&E department will be automatically assigned a youth worker under the latest proposals to help tackle youth violence in the borough.

The project, which is being run between the hospital, Enfield Council and Oasis UK, will see a youth worker stationed at the hospital who will be alerted as soon as a teenager turns up wounded.

The youth worker will then assess if they are a possible target of or a participant in gang crime and refer them to a range of services geared towards battling gang crime in north London.

The council also hopes that as well as intervening directly with young people, the project will help give the authorities a more accurate reading of how many teens are at risk of falling prey to north-east London's gang culture.

The council's cabinet member for community organisations and culture Yasemin Brett said: "Youth violence is a serious problem, but it is one that is perpetrated by a relatively small number of people.

"Working together gives us an opportunity to better understand the problem we face and do something about it at a critical moment.

"This is an innovative, proportionate and sensible way of making sure vulnerable young people can access the services they really need to turn their lives around.

"We know that gangs and serious youth violence are issues that we need to urgently address and this is the most effective way of contacting those people who are directly affected by it."

A pilot scheme which ran for one year until last month focused on young people from Enfield.

The scheme has now been rolled out on a permanent basis to deal with teenagers and young people from Enfield and the neighbouring borough of Haringey after 224 victims of violence from Enfield were referred to the youth worker stationed at North Midd in the course of the pilot scheme.

Dr Gayle Hann, consultant paediatrician at the hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, said: "We are delighted to have had the team based at the hospital for a year and working alongside us.

"Our busy doctors and nurses really appreciate being able to refer young people to someone who can offer practical help and support when we think the young person may have been a victim of violence or bullying.

'Serious problem': Yasemin Brett

"And in this way we hope we can play a part in stopping it from happening again," added Dr Hann.

Budget planners pave the way for £50million cuts

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE council has launched its budget consultation ahead of the Chancellor of the Exchequer's spending review today.

George Osborne is expected to stick to his programme of austerity economics which will see the spending power of public bodies including local authorities vastly reduced.

Council chiefs say they expect no leniency and have launched their consultation document based on their estimation that they will have to cut £50million from their budget by 2019/20.

Leaked information has suggested that local councils will be given powers to raise money for the health and social care budget through increasing council tax.

"All that really is is softening us up for the announcement that they're not going to put extra money into social care," said Doug Taylor, the leader of Enfield Council, at the launch of the consultation.

He admitted that the borough would look very different in a few years' time when the tens of millions have been shaved from its budget.

"It would be disingenuous to say that we can take cash out of the system without any impact on front-line services, so there will be an impact and people will see that," said Mr Taylor.

In a bid to find out which areas of council spending are regarded as sacred, a questionnaire attached to the consultation document asks residents to rank the order in which they value services.

So, which areas does Mr Taylor believe will be the first to suffer?

"All of them," he said bluntly, adding: "The only way to say that a service won't have a reduction is to get rid of something entirely. We could close all the parks, but even that would not save us that much money."

So, is it inevitable that council tax will rise in the new year?

"Nothing is inevitable," replied Mr Taylor, but insisted that there would be a stark choice between funding some key services and paying more tax. "If we were to raise council tax by one per cent, that would be 21p a week extra on a band D property," he added.

"Our policy was we would keep council tax as low as we could, but it will come to the point where it is a trade-off between £900,000 funding for children's services and a one per cent rise in council tax – or no money for those services and no extra tax."

The budget consultation document will be delivered to residents and is available to complete online at <https://www.snapsurveys.com/wh/s.asp?k=144742734933> by January 29.

SMALL BUSINESS SATURDAY 5TH DECEMBER

Splash your cash locally...

Small businesses in the borough are gearing up for a day of showcasing their wares as preparations for Small Business Saturday on December 5th get under way. Splashing the cash in small, local and independent businesses has been shown to directly benefit the local community, more so than when buying from large, dominant chain stores on the high street. Research carried out by local authorities shows that for every £1 spent with a small business 63p went straight back into the local community, compared to just 40p spent in a large chain store. The Small Business Saturday campaign began in America as a way to show shoppers that buying locally is the best way of supporting a community.

Last year saw the launch of the UK version of the campaign where small businesses and local authorities joined forces to show that Christmas presents are best when bought from local suppliers.

Independent businesses who will be eager to welcome new customers on December 5th will include the Library Cafe in Enfield Town Library in Church Street run by Urvashi Roe who has been pioneering using as much Enfield-grown fresh produce as possible in her ever-evolving lunch menu. Orchid Bar and Bistro, also on Church Street in Enfield Town will be welcoming new customers on the day as will Ecovino Teatro - the organic wine bar that opened earlier this year in The Dugdale Centre in London Road, Enfield.

MP calls for election ban on people with criminal records

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN MP has called for a change in the law which would see anybody with a criminal conviction within the past five years banned from elected positions in local government.

David Burrowes, the Conservative MP for Enfield Southgate, has tabled an amendment to the government's devolution bill which would result in automatic disqualification.

Currently, the law states that someone has to have been sentenced to three months in prison before they are banned from local councils.

Mr Burrowes has said that he specifically wants this amendment as an Enfield councillor who received a suspended sentence for a fraud offence in 2014 is still allowed to represent his ward.

A police newsletter circulated in 2014 revealed that Nesimi Erbil, one of the councillors for Lower Edmonton, had been sentenced to four weeks' imprisonment, suspended for 12 months, fined £580 and given eight penalty points at Southwark Crown Court on September 26, 2014, for fraudulently displaying "all London" taxi badges in his black cab when he was only licensed to drive passengers in the boroughs of Enfield, Haringey, Waltham Forest and Hackney.

Mr Erbil was suspended from the Labour Party in January pending an investigation. He now sits on the council benches as an independent.

Mr Burrowes referred specifically to his case when calling on the government to toughen up rules around letting people with convictions stand for election to local government bodies.

"This amendment to the act would ensure that any councillor convicted of an offence warranting a custodial sentence, whatever its length, was disqualified," said the MP.

"I am not sure why the original act specified a three-month limit, but I think that we can do a lot better in 2015. Allowing people like Mr Erbil to continue in their posts after being convicted of fraud and sentenced to imprisonment will not instil public confidence."

Mr Burrowes admitted he had been prompted by the leader of the opposition on Enfield Council Terry Neville to look again at the national rules around elected representatives.

Mr Neville said: "We need to prove the standing of local government in the public view. This is essential if local government is to successfully take on the new powers in the government's local devolution bill."

Council leader Doug Taylor confirmed that Mr Erbil was still suspended by Labour as the investigation into his behaviour continued.

"Mr Neville put a question about this issue to me at the last council meeting and I said to him, 'How can you implement tough rules for councillors when there are members of the House of Lords who have spent extensive time in prison?'"

ENFIELD'S HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL DAY EVENT WEDNESDAY 27TH JANUARY 2016

Enfield Council invites you to attend the Holocaust Memorial Day Event at the Dugdale Centre in Enfield at 7pm on Wednesday 27th January 2016.

This is the 16th year that Enfield has commemorated the event, and whatever your age or belief, we would like to invite you to join us in marking this important occasion.

This year we remember those who did not stand by whilst others were persecuted, including one of Enfield's own local residents, Charles Coward, who came from Edmonton and helped over 400 Jewish prisoners escape from Auschwitz.

We will also be reflecting on our individual responsibilities not to be bystanders to hate crime and prejudice.

Our event is always very popular so you will need to book your place as early as possible if you would like to attend. Doors open at 6.30pm and refreshments will be served following a diverse programme.

Please contact Tina Uhrynawycz on tina.uhrynawycz@enfield.gov.uk if you would like to reserve your seat.

Boss fined for selling toxic skin creams

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A BUSINESSMAN has been fined thousands of pounds for flogging toxic skin-lightening creams.

Kabamba Tabukanga admitted selling the creams containing a toxic mix of chemicals when he pleaded guilty to 14 counts of not complying with the Cosmetic Products Safety Regulations Act 2008 at Tottenham Magistrates' Court on November 6.

The 53-year-old, of Hoe Lane, Enfield, was ordered to pay £4,620 in fines, £2,554 in costs and a £120 victim surcharge.

His company, Gramadi Place Ltd, was fined £6,160 and has been ordered to pay costs of £2,554.

A routine inspection carried out by Enfield Council's trading standards department led to the seizure of a raft of cosmetics containing the dangerous mix of mercury and hydroquinone.

It is a chemical that can disfigure the skin by changes in pigmentation as well as trigger itching, swelling and flaking.

Use of the chemical above a certain concentration is banned in the EU and in the US.

Mercury in skin-lightening soaps and creams can lead to damage to kidneys as well as to the central nervous system.

The toxin can also cause discolouration of the skin and long-term scarring.

Some of the products were also found to be labelled with misleading information about the concentration of chemicals contained in them.

The council's cabinet chief in charge of environment, Daniel Anderson, said: "We will not tolerate businesses that put profits before the safety of our residents and will take quick and effective action against anyone who endangers the public by selling what are frankly dangerous products.

"This sentence sends out a very strong message and I sincerely hope it deters others from selling this kind of unsafe merchandise."

Search goes on for man who fled from mental health clinic

POLICE are appealing for help in tracing a man who escaped from a mental health clinic in Edmonton.

Reece Burton, 25, pictured, was last seen at 11.20am on Friday in the grounds of the North London Clinic, in Church Street.

He was being detained at the clinic under the Mental Health Act after being convicted of grievous bodily harm with intent.

When last seen, he was wearing a blue T-shirt, blue jeans, a black baseball cap, a grey parka jacket and a pair of grey trainers.

He also has a distinctive tattoo of his initials, "RB," on the right side of his neck.

Police have said that Burton is considered dangerous and members of the public should not approach him if they see him, but should call the police on 999.

Any non-urgent information on his location can be passed to Enfield CID on 020 8345 3353, or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111, or the police non-emergency line on 101.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

A FREE ASSESSMENT AND VALUATION DAY

You are invited to attend our assessment, valuation and purchase day, where TOP PRICES are agreed and offered.

Just bring along your chosen items; our valuer will give you a free appraisal and a current estimation of value. We will then discuss your best course of action and either make an offer of purchase or provide advice on your other options.

Antiques television programmes have made people more aware of the potential value of their belongings, however, the best method of realising the true cash value is not always made clear.

There are many items that are not so obviously valuable and this is where the professional valuer's expertise comes in.

There are times when the exposure of an auction is beneficial – let our experts help you to decide, but many items, where a known or intrinsic value can be simply assessed such as Gold, are just not suited for sale at auction.

Without advice, auctions can actually LOSE you money. After weeks of waiting, and assuming your item sells - commission charges, premiums and taxes reduce your likely share to only two thirds of the total transaction payment!

This is how we are able to offer you a high purchase figure as there's no premium for us and NO STOPPAGES for you, just an immediate cash settlement.

Time to make some noise!

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

HEARING boos and hisses from the audience is not what would be regarded as a successful first night by most performers, but it's how the cast of Millfield Theatre's Christmas panto Cinderella will know if they have a smash-hit on their hands.

The curtain goes up on the sparkling production at the Edmonton venue in Silver Street tomorrow (Thursday) for a five-week run.

And director/writer Marc Day will know instantly if he's got it right by whether the audience joins in and spontaneously boos the baddies and cheers the heroes – a key tradition of the panto experience.

"Each panto has a set structure – the 'he's behind you, oh no he isn't' convention, together with cross dressing and gender role reversal," he explained.

"Contemporary references are included in the script to keep it fresh, but audience participation is its stock-in-trade and I'll know whether the formula is right by how they respond," he added.

The lavish production has stunning sets, live music, dazzling dance routines and outrageous costumes – the Ugly Sisters upstaging everyone with wigs and dresses that get more ostentatious each time they appear.

It's the classic rags-to-riches fairytale – Cinderella escaping her life of pot-cleaning drudgery and the taunts of her wicked stepsisters after her fairy godmother grants her wish to go to the ball.

There she wins the heart of Prince Charming, but in her haste to leave before the clock strikes midnight and her magic coach turns back to a pumpkin, she leaves behind a shoe.

When it's revealed that the shoe belongs to her, she and the Prince are married and they live happily ever after.

The cast, comprising eight principals, six professional dancers and six children, have had only a week and half of rehearsals and with twice daily performances and more than 100 costume changes per show it can be exhausting.

"For those actors who've never appeared in panto before it can be a challenge because you need lots of stamina," said Marc, 41.

He has been involved with Millfield's pantos for the past eight years and graduated to writing and directing after a lifetime working in theatre.

"The cast are bound to be unsure at first of whether they will evoke an audience response, but that's how I want them to be," he added. "I don't want them too settled and the short rehearsal period will help that.

"That said, we have an unbelievable cast, brilliant dancers, loads of fantastic songs and plenty of panto silliness and humour, all sprinkled with the unique Millfield magic, making it a festive treat for the whole family."

Depp is deadly and dominant

BLACK MASS (15, 123 mins)

CRIME might pay for Johnny Depp, who bids for a fourth Oscar nomination with a tour-de-force portrayal of real-life mobster James "Whitey" Bulger in Scott Cooper's stylish and sporadically bloody crime thriller.

It's a genuinely chilling performance of brooding menace and the chameleonic actor immerses himself in the role, replete with coloured contact lenses, rapidly receding hairline and paunch.

Strip away Depp's theatrics and Black Mass is a handsomely crafted, if overly familiar, tale of crime and punishment that faintly echoes Martin Scorsese's Oscar-winning The Departed.

Mark Mallouk and Jez Butterworth's script is unbalanced, relishing scenes of Whitey terrorising his victims while short-changing arguably the most interesting relationship in the film – Whitey and his brother Billy.

John Connolly (Joel Edgerton) grew up with the Bulgurs in South Boston and returns to the area in 1975 as an FBI agent under Charles McGuire (Kevin Bacon).

The city is under the control of the Winter Hill Gang, led by Whitey (Depp), right-hand thug Stephen Flemmi (Rory Cochrane), hitman Johnny Martorano (W Earl Brown) and heavy Kevin Weeks (Jesse Plemons). Perversely, Whitey's brother Billy (Benedict Cumberbatch) wields legitimate power as a Massachusetts state senator.

When gangland rivals the Angiulo Brothers, who are connected to the New England Mafia, declare war on the Winter Hill Gang. Connolly secretly contacts Whitey to persuade the kingpin to turn informant.

"It ain't rattin', it's an alliance!" the FBI agent assures his childhood pal.

Whitey provides intelligence on the Mafia and the cops act on the insider information to bring down the powerful syndicate.

This covert alliance is tested to breaking point when Whitey murders a duplicitous accomplice in broad daylight.

FBI agents John Morris (David Harbour), Robert Fitzpatrick (Adam Scott) and Fred Wyshak (Corey Stoll) question the value of the pact. Blood is thicker than common sense and John approaches Billy to defuse an explosive situation.

"I'm not asking you to help me, I'm asking you to help your brother," pleads the cop. "That's the same thing now, isn't it?" retorts the savvy politician.

Adapted from a non-fiction book penned by journalists Dick Lehr and Gerard O'Neill, Black Mass skims over some of the meatier detail to cut back and forth between Whitey's rise to power and John's inexorable fall from grace.

Edgerton pales next to Depp and Cumberbatch has limited screen time to add flesh to the bare bones of his suited power broker.

In the film's most unsettling scene, Whitey takes the temperature of John's disapproving wife (Julianne Nicholson), who is pretending to be ill, before forcefully squeezing her throat to check if her glands are swollen.

She chokes, her eyes water and Whitey visibly savours every skin-crawling, nerve-shredding second of his dominance.

Peter Barry
working harder for you

PETER BARRY APPOINT CHARLOTTE DELPH TO LEAD LETTINGS EXPANSION

Leading sales and lettings agents Peter Barry are delighted to announce the appointment of Charlotte Delph as Manager of their lettings department in Winchmore Hill.

Charlotte who is a qualified member of the Association of Residential Lettings Agents (ARLA), leads the lettings and management team after working for several years in a North West London agency.

Charlotte joins Peter Barry at an exciting time as the business is growing both its sales and lettings operations alongside its rapidly expanding surveying and professional services operations.

Charlotte said: "I am delighted to have joined the team at Peter Barry and look forward to building on the excellent foundations that are already in place. Having qualified as an ARLA professional letting agent myself, I also look forward to supporting members of my team who have embarked on the same qualification."

My aim is to make Peter Barry the agent of choice in lettings and management locally through a combination of great marketing and customer service, professionalism and enthusiastic hard work!"

Justin Burns FRICS, the proprietor of Peter Barry said: "We are excited at having Charlotte join us at such an exciting time for the business and are confident that, under her leadership, the lettings and management business will go from strength to strength."

Peter Barry provide a full range of lettings and management services and welcome enquiries from landlords looking to let properties in the Winchmore Hill, Southgate, Enfield and Palmers Green areas.

One month on Charlotte is settling in well, successfully launching several new properties to the market and securing many new lets. Charlotte says "Since starting at Peter Barry I have enjoyed meeting new clients and starting to develop strong relationships. I am focussing on ensuring that Peter Barry provide the best quality service and advice to our clients. We feedback to all clients after each viewing and ensure that our marketing of each property is effective and pro-active, with great quality photos and descriptions to secure the best quality of tenants quickly to avoid void periods. The letting market is strong and we have a lot of serious and good quality applicants looking to secure a home before Christmas"

To enquire about letting your property and getting the best return on your rental investments, Charlotte can be contacted in Winchmore Hill at 946 Green Lanes, by phone on 0208 360 4777 or by email at charlotte.delph@pbea.co.uk

Striking the right balance

By Matt Joy

SEAT'S Ibiza has done a sterling job of bringing buyers into the brand in what is a cut-throat sector of the market. It's also managed to look youthful and sharp, despite having been around since 2008. Now it's time for the Ibiza's second facelift and it's on the receiving end of plenty of new kit.

The outside gets a mild makeover, while inside there are new materials and a re-sculpted dashboard, which helps boost the quality feel alongside greater personalisation options and increased technology. There are also some new engines to choose from and tweaked suspension aimed at improving the ride quality.

It's a sign of confidence from Seat that they have chosen to change so little of the Ibiza's exterior. Compared to the 2012 model, the exterior is distinguished only by LED daytime running lights, LED tail lights and some new alloy wheel options, otherwise it's the same attractive shape. The bold lines make it stand out from its more conservative rivals and it's still the best looking car in the class, which no doubt helps its youthful image.

Small cars certainly aren't as small as they used to be, but the Ibiza strikes a good balance between a compact exterior and a cabin that is usefully sized. In the front there's a good driving position, legroom and headroom are good enough even for taller folk and it's not a narrow cabin either. In the back, it's fine for kids and you can squeeze adults in there, too, but three across the back requires a degree of intimacy. Boot space remains at 292 litres, which isn't the outright biggest in the class, but it's a good shape and can cope with reasonable demands.

The pick of the new engine line-up is the 1.0-litre three-cylinder, which is now available in turbocharged form with two power outputs – but the larger 1.2 TFSI tested here is still an excellent device even in the lower 90PS form.

Quiet and torquey, it behaves much like a larger capacity engine and there's very little to betray the fact it is turbocharged. It delivers some impressive numbers, too – 0-62mph in 10.7 seconds and 57.6mpg combined.

Elsewhere, the Ibiza switches to electric power steering and while that does mean the steering is light and a little less feelsome than before, it only takes one corner to realise it is pleasingly accurate and makes for a fun car to drive. The retuned suspension smooths out bigger road imperfections well.

In this Connect model, you get the full infotainment experience with Apple Car Play, or Mirror-Link depending on the choice of smartphone, which seamlessly displays a select number of phone apps on screen. The upgraded speaker system for a modest £155 is a worthwhile investment, too.

Even though the Connect model isn't at the top of the Ibiza tree, it's still generously equipped. The key element is the five-inch infotainment system including navigation and DAB, but there are also 16-inch alloy wheels, aluminium sill trims and tasteful cloth seating. All Ibizas get air conditioning, a version of the touchscreen, a USB port, Bluetooth and air conditioning as well.

The Ibiza is an ideal car for the younger generation with its impressive kit list and smart exterior, but its appeal is much broader than that. It's a cinch to drive and is a doddle to park, so it would suit older folks, too, and there's enough space in the back for two children in comfort. The other big plus point is the range of frugal petrol engines, some of which break the crucial 100g/km barrier.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1989.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer. (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

We are looking for candidate who:

- Preferably has experience of working with pupils who have additional needs.
- Is calm, reliable and consistent.
- Can work well independently and as a team member.
- Wants to make a real difference to child's learning and inclusion.

Hours: 31½ hours per week x 39 weeks per annum.
Actual Salary Range: £12,728 - £13,278 p.a. inc. (scale 2)
Graduates are welcome to apply.

At Garfield we offer:

- A professional and friendly working environment.
- Delightful pupils who love their learning and make us proud to be at Garfield.
- Dedicated governors, staff, pupils and parents who work hard to continue to develop our school.
- The opportunity to be part of an exciting brand new school with excellent facilities.

Visits to the school are strongly encouraged, and you should contact the school office to arrange this in advance.

Application packs can be downloaded from our website, and when completed should be sent to vacancy@garfield.enfield.sch.uk

POCHETTINO'S JOY AT SPURS' DISPLAY

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HEAD COACH Mauricio Pochettino hailed his Tottenham Hotspur side after they produced a fine performance to beat West Ham United 4-1 in the Premier League on Sunday.

In-form Spurs dominated from the start at White Hart Lane as a Harry Kane brace and goals from Toby Alderweireld and Kyle Walker saw them romp to victory and extend their unbeaten run in the league to 12 matches.

And Pochettino expressed his delight at both the result and the performance, while also being quick to play down any talk that Tottenham might be able to mount a genuine title challenge this season.

"It was an amazing performance and I've only one word – pride," he said. "The game was brilliant against a very difficult team like West Ham. It was one of our best results and performances of the season."

"I think we can take a lot of positives from the game in the energy and the way we played. The key is our mental state. If you are happy in the way you play and you believe in the philosophy then you can see that in a performance like we showed against West Ham."

"We have a good balance in the squad, we are still young and we can grow – time, belief and working hard is the key for us. I'm happy, but now we need to look at the next game."

Pochettino added: "The end of the season is too far away. We are a young squad, we need to develop our way. We have been consistent, but to win the title maybe we need more. It is a step by step thing."

"The most important thing is that the players believe in the way we play and we share the same philosophy. This was a big step forward because it was a very good example of how we want to play and how we want to play in the future."

While Kane's double saw the striker find the net for a fifth successive game, Walker's goal was a much rarer occurrence as he got on the scoresheet for the first time since December 2013.

"It's been a long while, especially after my difficult season with injury, but it's a great day to get the goal with it being a London derby," the England international right-back said. "It's overdue, but I was happy with the finish."

"To be fair, I don't use my left foot enough and it's come to my left foot, so I thought I'd just hit it with the outside of my right foot. Obviously it's come off and luckily it went in the back of net."

"I thought to be honest we should have probably been further ahead before half-time. When we got that third goal it was like a sigh of relief because we know what happened in the Stoke game earlier in the season where we were 2-0 up and we ended up drawing 2-2."

"We didn't want a recurrence of that, we said so in the dressing room, and I think we just need to keep going now with the momentum we've got. We've put a good run together and hopefully it continues into next week as well."

Encouraging signs: Mauricio Pochettino was delighted with both Spurs' performance and the result on Sunday

Quill is named coach of year at awards ceremony

LONDON SKOLARS' under-13s head coach Paul Quill won the coach of the year prize at the Haringey Celebrating Sports Awards ceremony.

The event, which took place at Tottenham Green Leisure Centre on Wednesday last week, was attended by councillors and cabinet members and featured two guest speakers – Tottenham Hotspur's Dutch international goalkeeper Micheal Vorm and Great Britain number two long jumper Daniel Bramble.

The award tops off an outstanding season for Quill after the under-13s – in their first season of junior rugby league – reached the play-offs and made a memorable run through to the semi-finals of the cup before suffering an agonising defeat to eventual winners Ruitlish Raiders.

Skolars' community development manager Matt Cuss said: "I am extremely proud of and grateful for Paul's efforts throughout the 2015 season and his achievements were really down to his hard work and dedication."

"Just to be nominated for this award was a superb accolade and shows that the hard work that he, along with our other fantastic volunteer junior coaches, put in is being recognised across the borough."

"On the night Paul was up against some very strong nominees, so to hear his name being read out as the winner was a great end to the evening and a wonderful end to what has been a fantastic season for him and the rest of our junior teams."

"Planning has already started for the 2016 season, and hopefully awards and recognition like this will encourage more parents and people in the borough to give up their time and help develop the next generation of sporting stars in Haringey with us here at London Skolars."

Other winners on the night included Asco

Netball Club, who were named club of the year, and junior team of the year London Mets under-18.

Bob Packham from Alexandra Park Youth Football Club was the volunteer of the year, while Mo Ferrag from London Boxing Academy took the junior sports performer of the year prize.

Riverside School football team was named disabled team of the year, while Rhodes Avenue Primary won the sporting school of the year award.

Jonelle Pelie from London Blitz American Football Club won the sports performer of the year prize, and a posthumous outstanding contribution to sport in north London award was handed out to the late Tottenham Hotspur Ladies FC chairman Glenn Weaver, who dedicated 30 years of his life to the club and women's football in general before passing away in February of this year.

Borough climb off bottom

HARINGEY BOROUGH climbed off the foot of Ryman League Division One North and out of the bottom three after securing a 1-0 victory at home to fellow strugglers Heybridge Swifts on Saturday.

Having been promoted from the Essex Senior League last season, Borough initially struggled at the higher level and failed to win any of their first ten league matches – picking up just three points during that time.

But a 1-0 victory at Romford on September 26 sparked an upturn in their form which has been highlighted by an impressive run in the FA Trophy, featuring wins over Ryman Division One South leaders Folkestone Invicta and Southern League

Premier Division outfit Dunstable Town, before eventually losing to another Southern Premier side in Hitchin Town.

Despite this improvement in their fortunes, Borough still went into Saturday's clash at Coles Park lying at the foot of the table and desperately looking to add three more points to their total.

The match proved to be a close encounter, but Jerome Martelli's 59th-minute strike ultimately proved decisive as it sealed a vital victory for Borough which saw them climb three places up the table and resulted in Heybridge replacing them at the bottom.

Haringey Borough go to AFC Hornchurch on Saturday (3pm), before entertaining Harlow Town on Tuesday (7.45pm).
